LOVE FOR HAWAII OVERCOMES ALL ELSE

Kuhio Can Not Stay to Fight
Fears Any Longer, but Must Save the Sugar Tariff.

LEAVES ON THE WILHELMINA

Urges Voters to Give Victory to Him at Convention Next Month.

If the Republican voters believe that Kuhio is right in his various allegations of maladministration against Governor Frear, they will elect him a delegate to the Chicago convention, according to the light thrown upon the political situation by the Delegate in his address last night in Aala Park, an address listened to attentively by a fair-sized crowd. The Delegate informed his hearers that he felt the tug of duty drawing him toward Washington and the sugar tariff debate in the senate so strongly that he was prepared to leave in the very midst of his fight against the Governor, leaving his political future in the hands of his lieutenants, John C. Lane and Charley Achi, around whom the voters should gather and give him victory at the April convention.

The Delegate will wing his way on the path of duty and leave for the capital tomorrow, sailing by the Wilhelmina. He does not go because the sugar planters are sending him, but because his sense of duty has grown so keen that he cannot longer remain away from Washington. In recognition of this unselfish love of Hawaii, he urged the voters to elect him as delegate to Chicago.

Throughout his speech, Kuhio made it plain that he expects the April convention to resolve itself into one to either endorse or repudiate him, while he openly acknowledged that his mission during the past few weeks in Hawaii has been to work against the Governor and create anti-Frear sentiment among the Republicans.

The Delegate's Quandary.

Delegate Kuhio, being introduced by John C. Lane, spoke first in English, following with a speech in Hawaiian. The last speech differed in many essential points from the English one, which was:

"It is rather a peculiar situation to be placed in to have a mass meeting called particularly that I might be heard, particularly that your Delegate to congress might be heard. Gentlemen, I have represented you in congress for the past ten years, and an issue has arisen in that time. That issue you all know. I went to Washington to attend to the affairs of this Territory, believing conscientiously and honestly that I am right.

Depends Upon Him.

"Since that time I was called home. I am here now. Many questions arose since I left home for Washington, but I believe the most important is 'Kill Kuhio.' But after a few weeks in the Territory another question arose, and that was the bill for free sugar before congress. What with the Kuhio-Frear fight, and the sugar fight, both things contributed to place your Delegate in a peculiar situation and his future depends upon the people, and the future of the mainstay of the people of this Territory depends upon his work. Between two duties, your Delegate has considered that he should go to Washington, notwithstanding the fact that he has no vote upon the floor of the house. But I claim and I say now that I should be in Washington to protect the interests of this Territory. I don't go because the sugar planters want me to go, but I go because I believe that the citizens of the Territory need me there, and I want the citizens to see Continued on Page eight.

THANKING YOU FOR YOUR KIND ATTENTION—

UNLUCKY IN LOVE, PUNA SCHOOLMA'AM ATTEMPTS SUICIDE

Rushed to Hilo by Auto and May Recover—Shoots Herself in Face.

(Special Wireless to The Advertiser.)

HILO, March 25.—Her place in the affections of her former lover taken by another, Miss Dinah Sylva, teacher at the little school of Kauaia, attempted suicide this morning near Pahoa by shooting herself in the face. She was found almost at once, first aid was given, and she was then rushed to the Hilo Hospital in an auto, arriving here early this afternoon.

Miss Sylva was an uncertified teacher, stationed at Kauaia as no other could be found to take the place. There are but thirty-five pupils in the school, which is below Pahoa. She is a Hawaiian-half Portuguese girl, her parents residing at Kapoho, Puna.

ENTERPRISE IN TOW OF LURLINE

SAN FRANCISCO, March 26.—Officials of the Matson Navigation company here last night received wireless messages from the Lurline and Enterprise, announcing that the former vessel had broken her tail shaft, when about 370 miles off the lightship. The Lurline was communicated with at once. She is reported to have passed a towline to the disabled steamer and now has her in tow. At half-past seven last night the company was informed that the sea was calm and that both ships are proceeding on their way to the Coast.

FRESH LIGHT ON KAUAI MURDER

Editor Sheba Gives Some Inside
Facts in Recent Weird
Legal Mix-up.

Every sidelight thrown on the recent Kauai legal farce in which justice played the part of the chief comedian, adds to the general total of the incompetence of the Garden Island police. S. Sheba who assisted the defense in the "murder trials" which culminated the situation, and who returned Sunday to Honolulu brought back with him information explaining only too clearly why the fourteen Japanese had to be arrested at all.

With tricky informers, deserving worse than the usual designation of "spy" at the bottom of the mess, the Kauai police further tangled the situation, according to the story of the circumstances brought down by Mr. Sheba. Masa, the informer, who was stoned to death by his infuriated countrymen, had furnished them sufficient cause for rage, says the editor of the Shingo, who owing to his connection with the trial became well acquainted with the past history of the case, brought to light by M. F. Prosser, attorney for the defense.

Pools Employers.

Originally employed by the deputy sheriff at Waimea, Masa managed to get the usual little advance rackets with which informers are supposed to bait their traps for blind pigs. Instead of reporting his work, however, he was lost sight of altogether and was later found at Hanalei, on the other side of the island.

BISHOPS BRIDGE BREAK OF YEARS AT M. E. CHURCH

Episcopal Prelate Pays Formal Visit to the Annual Conference of the Methodist Church.

It is to be questioned if ever before in the history of church organizations in America a bishop of an Episcopal diocese paid an official visit to a Methodist conference in session, bringing a message of Christian fraternity and good will.

Right Rev. Henry B. Restarick, Episcopal Bishop of Honolulu, accompanied by his secretary, called in his official capacity upon the Methodist conference of the Hawaiian Mission yesterday. Bishop Restarick has been one of the foremost supporters of the Christian Extension Movement in this city and his sermons at union meetings have been true calls for a getting together of all Christian creeds. But it was hardly expected that the bishop would so soon and in such a decided manner emphasize his own words.

The members of the conference listened to his message of Christian good will. Then the Right Rev. J. W. Bashford, Methodist Episcopal Bishop of China, and now presiding over the conference, arose and replied to Bishop Restarick. Bishop Bashford thanked the Episcopal prelate on behalf of the conference, "on behalf of the Methodist Episcopal Church, on behalf, indeed," he said, "of Almighty God, for this blessed message and greeting."

With the singing of the old-time, universal favorite, "Nearer, My God, to Thee," Bishop Restarick retired from the conference and one of the most remarkable incidents in Hawaiian church annals was closed.

COURT MAY ORDER SUGAR MEN FREED

Judge Now Considering Motion for Dismissal—Decision to Come This Morning.

NEW YORK, March 26.—There is apparently a fairly good prospect that the officials of the American Sugar Refining Company may be ordered acquitted by the court this morning. This phase of the prolonged trial came with the close of a protracted argument on the part of counsel for the accused men on the motion to dismiss the charges against their clients on the ground that a huge mistake in the status of the Pennsylvania refinery has been made by the government. Counsel declared that the Philadelphia company has never been a competitor of the American Refining Company, and as a consequence the charges are null and void. The court reserved decision.

REFINED REDUCED.

NEW YORK, March 26.—Refined sugar suffered another drop on the local market yesterday. It was reduced ten points.

PLANNING CANNERY FOR PINEAPPLES

Big Project on Maui Involves Spending Many Thousands in Near Future.

The largest pineapple cannery in the Territory will soon be in process of erection at Honolulu, Maui, adjacent to 3000 acres of fine pineapple land. This land is part of the old Baldwin ranch, and the project is one of the new ones financed by the Alexander & Baldwin interests. In addition to the pineapple plantation and cannery there is a ditch project to bring water more directly to the Pioneer plantation. This involves the cutting of four tunnels, one a mile long and three each half a mile in length, straightening the present irrigation system and bringing the water in a much shorter and more direct line to the land needing irrigation.

First in importance is the construction of the ditch and tunnels, and it is estimated that it will cost $300,000 to put this work through. The cannery will be started almost at once and will be completed in eighteen months. One hundred acres of pines will be put in as a starter this year, and the acreage gradually increased until the entire 3000 acres of the ranch land which is suitable for pineapples will be producing.

Power Plant Also.

It is planned to put in a power plant at the headwaters of the tunnel to generate light and power with the water before it starts on its way in the irrigating ditches. At present there is a flow of a million gallons a day through the ditch, but there is a considerable loss and with the tunnels it is estimated that the amount of water reaching the land will be doubled.

From the other side, the homesteaders are to bring their pines to the cannery at Honolulu in a thirty-foot motor boat which is now being built in Honolulu for the purpose. Automobile trucks to do the heavy hauling of cement and rock are now on the way from the east, and everything will be in readiness to start rapid work in the near future.

L. P. George, who has been with the Associated Garage for the past year, has been chosen to go over on the work as assistant manager, and when the tunnel and cannery are completed he will have charge of the pineapple plantation as manager.

MANY ASK FOR PEOPLE'S PRAYERS

Christian Extension Movement
Gaining Impetus—80 Boys
Sign Cards for Bishop.

For the first time during the progress of the Christian Extension Movement members of the audience at the meeting held at the Empire Theater last night rose in their places and offered prayer. This new feature following an earnest and awakening address by Rev. Elmer Smith of the First Methodist Church. Men and women, among the listeners, stirred by their emotions, offered voluntary testimony and many cards were signed by former non-churchgoers desiring to affiliate with some one of the Honolulu churches.

First Fruits.

It was announced that eighty boys of this city, as a result of Bishop Restarick's talk on Sunday afternoon, had signed church cards for the purpose of joining some one of the churches of Honolulu. Among the churches named by the boys were the Roman Catholic, Central Union, Methodist Episcopal, Lutheran and Episcopal.

Singer Butler repeated by request "The Voice of God's Creation," surpassing his previous rendering of the inspiring classic. Tonight he will give Sir Arthur Sullivan's basso masterpiece "The Lost Chord." On the stage during the meeting were Deputy Attorney General Smith, Rev. A. A. Ebersole, Rev. John W. Weedman, Rev. Elmer Smith and W. C. Weedon.

Preacher's Text.

Choosing his text from the First Romans, "I am not ashamed of the Gospel of Jesus Christ," the speaker said in part:

"There was a time when the man who wrote those words was ashamed of that very gospel. In fact, he was one of those who persecuted the followers of that gospel. He hated the gospel, he was prejudiced against it. He was like many men of the present day. And why did this man hate the gospel? Simply because he did not understand the noble character of Jesus. He was unable or unwilling to see the beauty of the gospels and all they meant to man."

Fundamental Things.

"I want to state a few of the fundamental things of this gospel of which I am proud. In the first place I am proud of the Founder, his divine and beautiful character. Even Pilate reached the conclusion that Christ was a wonderful and ennobling character, a Being of purity and splendor. Continued on Page eight.

THREE MILLION WORKERS ARE NOW IDLE

Thousands Are Now Dependent Upon Charity of Their Countrymen.

HOPE OF COMPROMISE PAST

Conference Between Leaders, Cabinet and Owners Ends in Failure.

LONDON, March 26.—England is facing the greatest industrial crisis of her history since the Black Death changed the entire economic structure of the kingdom. Three millions of men, women and children are idle, thousands are dependent upon the charity of their fellow-factories are closed, business is coming to a standstill, and no one is able to guess the total of damage and misery as the direct or indirect result of the coal strike, which is growing steadily in seriousness.

Premier Asquith, David Lloyd George and other members of the cabinet, called a conference between the leaders of the strikers and the mine operators yesterday in the hope that some sort of a compromise might be reached which would put an end to the strike. Instead the conference broke up suddenly without any basis for a settlement having been reached.

Ports Choked.

Everywhere throughout Great Britain the same serious condition prevails. Reports from practically all of the ports show them to be choked with ships unable to depart for lack of fuel. Southampton, Liverpool, Bristol, Hull, Cardiff and the Cinque Ports, are in the worst shape. Their shipping is declared to be almost at a standstill, and the situation steadily growing worse. Scotch and Irish ports have not suffered so severely, owing to the fact that the drain upon them is not so great, and most of them carried a supply of coal that staved off the evil day for a time.

Throughout the industrial district of the kingdom, the conditions have been steadily growing worse for days, until now, reports from the north and west declare that the big manufacturing towns of Manchester, Redding and Sheffield are completely tied up. The most peculiar feature of the situation is that not a clash between troops or strikers has been reported to date.

WHIPPED LEADER KILLS HIMSELF

General Salas Commits Suicide—
Mexican Federals Then Turn and Thrash Rebels.

MEXICO CITY, March 26.—One of the stories so far developed by the present rebellion came to light yesterday with the report that General Salas, the federal general who was so badly defeated the day before, had committed suicide while leading his retreating soldiers toward Torreon. Salas felt the sting of defeat keenly, it is reported, and wired to President Madero that, as he had lost all, he might as well finish the job and go out as a soldier. He then shot himself through the head. Salas was felt in official circles here when the general's telegram was received. It was believed he had delivered the army he commanded into the hands of the insurgents. This feeling was turned to joy at later reports.

According to these, as soon as General Salas was dead the command was assumed by one of his subordinate officers, who executed a flank movement and, striking the rebels, as they were following him, practically destroyed them. The officer's name is given in the dispatches as General Victoriano Huerta. The losses on both sides were heavy, but the revolutionists were scattered and many of them captured, with their rifles and a couple of field guns.

Reinforcements are being rushed to General Huerta as speedily as possible and he has been ordered to follow up his advantage with all possible speed.

News Confirmed.

EL PASO, Texas, March 26.—Dispatches from Jimenez report the federal victory complete.

UP TO OPERATORS.

CHICAGO, March 25.—The miners' union has decided to take no strike action pending some announcement from the mine operators.
